HBO Documentary Films
Directed by Peter Kunhardt and Brian Oakes
Rated TVG; Approximately 108 minutes; 2015

This feature documentary chronicles how five generations of one American family have shared the “glorious burden” of collecting, preserving and documenting a treasure trove of photographs, rare books and artifacts relating to Abraham Lincoln. In the years following the Civil War, Peter Kunhardt’s ancestors – in particular, his greatgrandfather, Frederick Hill Meserve – collected photographs that might have been lost forever, including now-iconic portraits used on the penny, the 5 dollar bill, and even the image of Lincoln used to create his likeness on Mount Rushmore. Through photos, home movies and the words of Peter’s ancestors (voiced by several of his living relatives), the film profiles several key family members whose stewardship of the Lincoln collection became an obsession, including Peter’s grandmother, Dorothy Kunhardt, author of the classic children’s book Pat the Bunny, and his father, Philip Kunhardt, Jr., a former managing editor of Life magazine. Juxtaposing the challenges and humanity of the Lincoln revealed in the Meserve-Kunhardt Collection with those of his ancestors, Kunhardt sheds light on the rewards and, in some cases, pitfalls involved in helping to preserve an important part of America’s past.

HBO Documentary Films
Directed by Matt Wolf
Rated TVPG; Approximately 34 minutes; 2015

This documentary short finds Hilary Knight looking back on his life as an artist and his connection to the immensely popular Eloise books, written by Kay Thompson and illustrated by Knight. For 60 years, Eloise – the precocious six-year-old who lives in New York’s Plaza Hotel – has charmed her way into the hearts of young readers, one of them being actress/director/writer Lena Dunham, whose Eloise tattoo led to a friendship with Knight, a creative kindred spirit. Whimsical and enlightening, the film features revealing interviews with Lena and Hilary, as well as family members, friends and writers who have been inspired by Knight’s work and childlike personality. Showcasing Hilary’s own handheld video footage, as well as original Eloise drawings brought to life through delightful animation, It’s Me, Hilary: The Man Who Drew Eloise shines a light on a talented and inspired artist, who has persevered through professional and personal obstacles – including his estrangement from Thompson, who forbade him from ever drawing Eloise again – all while embracing the lighter side of life.

Before the movie, invite students to dig for plastic dinosaurs and prizes in a mock excavation site such as a sandbox or empty garden. Be sure to schedule your dino hunters in ten minute intervals to keep the activity efficiently moving.

© Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc.

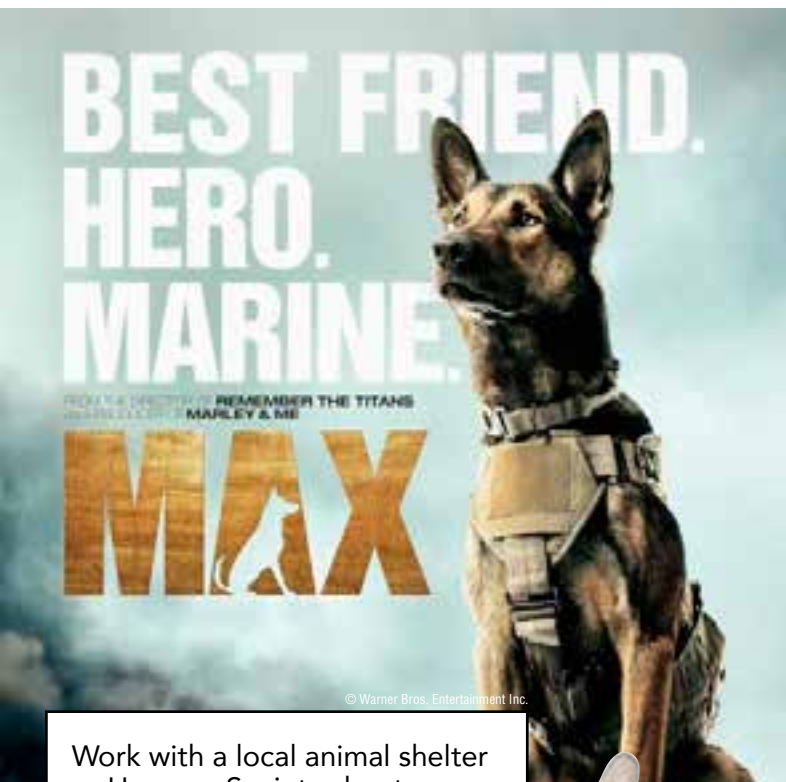

Invite attendees to come in costume as their favorite monster and create categories to judge the contestants on, complete with small prizes for the winners.

Pair this movie with a trunk or treat activity, hayride and straw maze to celebrate Halloween this fall. An alternative to trick or treating, a trunk or treat allows kids to go from parked car to parked car during daylight hours to stay safe while collecting candy.

Work with a local animal shelter or Humane Society chapter to bring puppies and kittens to your event for some much needed exercise and attention. Have attendees sign up to participate before the movie starts so you know how many animals are needed.

Embrace the theme 'never grow up' and incorporate a photo booth into your showing featuring Peter Pan props. From bottles of fairy dust to oversized clocks, don't forget to include alligators, feathered head dresses, green felt caps and pirate hooks!

© Warner Bros. Entertainment Inc.

Celebrate this superhero ensemble film by hosting a costume contest of the comic book variety. Invite attendees to dress up like their favorite superheroes from the film or another superhero movie and give out prizes for your favorites.

Make this movie showing a double feature by reminding audiences of what happened in The Hunger Games: Mockingjay Part 1. Host these movies on consecutive weekend nights to maximize your crowd and keep the story flowing.

Host a crafts corner as a pre-movie activity. Set up tables with all the essentials for attendees to create their very own SpongeBob SquarePants with yellow sponges, construction paper, googly eyes, toothpicks and more!

Upon arrival to your event, have attendees complete a personality quiz. Invite an expert to reveal the results and talk about the different personality types after the movie.

Everyone's favorite teddy bear is making his debut on the big screen, creating the perfect opportunity to pair this film with a charity toy drive. Partner with a local charity or contact your local Toys for Tots campaign for more information on how to help.

Celebrate this movie's focus on shoes by organizing a shoe donation drive. Soles 4 Soles is a national organization that can show you how to get started.

Get your community to attend by featuring a live version of the movie's star! Add a cute and cuddly element to your showing by pairing this movie with a petting zoo featuring goats, sheep, chicken and more.

Before a showing of this movie, partner with community organizations like your local police department, fire department and paramedic organizations to encourage others to learn more about the lifesaving equipment used, safety tips and much more.

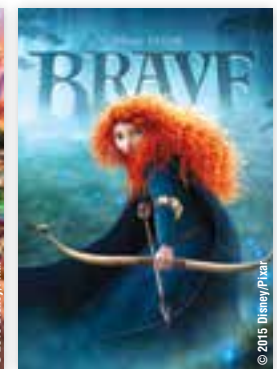

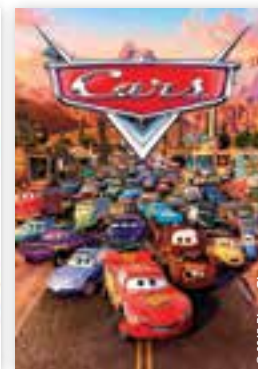

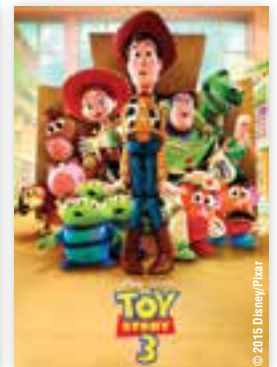

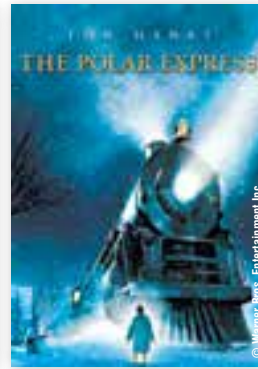

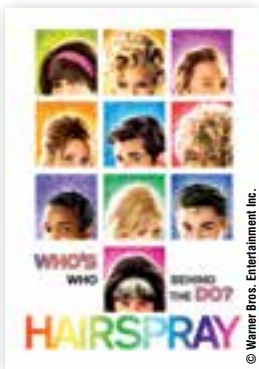

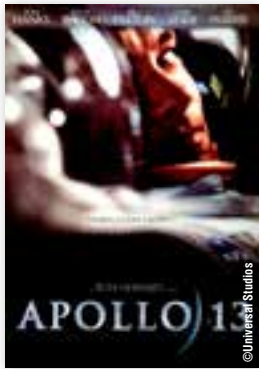

Pair this movie with conservation information from the National Wildlife Federation or the World Wildlife Fund to draw attention to the importance of protecting animal and their habitats.

AND MORE!

Important Information

For you to know prior to your screening

PRICING AND ADMISSION

Pricing is based on several factors including anticipated crowd size, screening location and the film itself. Pricing is for one day's rental; however, additional days can be added at a discounted rate. You are welcome to charge admission for your screening which could be a great way to help cover the cost of the licensing. If admission is charged, the total cost of the licensing will be the quoted licensing fee versus 50% of your ticket sales, whichever is greater.

ORDERS AND CANCELLATIONS

Orders should be placed and confirmed prior to advertising and at least two weeks prior to your screening. We can typically accommodate last minute bookings as well, so always check with your Account Executive prior to your event regardless of lead time.

All changes and cancellations must be received at least 10 days prior to your event. If you need to cancel and are unable to give 10 days' notice you will be required to pay the licensing in full. However, you will have up to one year to reschedule that same movie at no additional licensing fees.

In the case of an unforeseen circumstance (bad weather, electricity outage, equipment malfunction, etc.) that prevents you from being able to host your event as planned, you will have up to one year in which to reschedule the same movie with no additional licensing fees. It is important that you notify your Account Executive immediately of the cancellation. Please confirm your movie availability with your Account Executive prior to promoting your new date. You may also report your cancellation by logging into your online account. Payment is due at the time of the original show date. Depending on when you reschedule your event, you may be responsible for round trip shipping and handling for your new show date.

PAYMENT

Payment is due upon receipt of the invoice and we accept check or credit card. For payment inquiries: 1-800-876-5445

Remittance Address:

Swank Motion Pictures
2844 Paysphere Circle
Chicago, IL 60674

SHIPPING OF YOUR MOVIE

Your DVD will be scheduled to arrive approximately 2 business days prior to your show.

Please contact your Account Executive at least one day prior to your show regarding undelivered or damaged items. We highly suggest that the film be tested at least one day prior to your event to ensure a successful screening. It is recommended that you test the film, in its entirety, in the actual equipment that you plan on using for your event as compatibility can vary depending on equipment.

Movies must be returned on the first business day following your scheduled event. You will be provided with a prepaid UPS return shipping label. Charges may apply for late returns. You are responsible for the movie while it is in your possession and until Swank receives it.

ADVERTISING

Licensee shall have the right to advertise, publicize and promote the exhibition strictly limited to the licensee's premises and via private mailings, web and social media. Advertising through media such as public television, radio and newspaper is strictly prohibited. Licensee agrees that any advertising, publicity or promotion that is conducted by means of a marquee, lighted sign or billboard may not be viewable by the general public or will not list the name of the movie. Should these policies be violated and/or the screening become openly competitive with a commercial theater all rights to advertise, publicize and promote may be revoked and your screening may be at risk for cancellation.

Promoting your screening is key to having a great turnout. Our Account Executives are full of ideas on successfully promoting community movie events. Additionally, we offer free customizable publicity materials available for download on the Promotional Materials tab on our website.

Please do not begin advertising your movie event until you have arranged proper licensing and have received official confirmation from Swank Motion Pictures.

COPYRIGHT LAW

Any exhibition of a movie outside of a home setting is considered a public performance and therefore requires licensing even if there is no admission charged and if the screening is for a limited audience. Swank Motion Pictures has been appointed by the major Hollywood studios to provide such licensing in non-theatrical markets, including Colleges and Universities. The licensing fees compensate the copyright owners and the men and women who work on the film's production. These royalties are the way publishers, authors and composers are paid for their work.

COPYRIGHT RESTRICTIONS

Your license is only valid for the agreed upon date, title and location. Violation of this is subject to penalties set forth in the Federal Copyright Act. No movie or portion thereof may be copied, duplicated or distributed in any manner. Ownership of the content shall at all times be vested strictly with the producers, including but not limited to all registered and unregistered trade names, logos, trademarks, characters and names of the movie. Licensee will not make or authorize any others to make any modifications, deletions, cuts or additions to the content.
