THE SAMUEL GOLDWYN COMPANY

2 Jours - 2 Days follows two days in the relationship of a New York based couple - a French photographer Marion and American interior designer Jack - as they attempt to re-infuse their relationship with romance by taking a vacation in Europe. Their trip to Venice didn't really work out, - they both came down with gastroenteritis. They have higher hopes for Paris. But the combination of Marion's overbearing non-English-speaking parents, flirtatious ex-boyfriends, and Jack's obsession with photographing every famous Parisian tombstone and conviction that French condoms are too small, only adds fuel to the fire. Will they be able to salvage their relationship? Will they ever have sex again? Or will they merely manage to perfect the art of arguing?

Four men will do anything to pass the most difficult test you've NEVER heard of... Somm takes the viewer on a humorous, emotional and illuminating look into a mysterious world - the Court of Master Sommeliers and the massively intimidating Master Sommelier Exam. The Court of Master Sommeliers is one of the world's most prestigious, secretive, and exclusive organizations. Since its inception almost 40 years ago, less than 200 candidates have reached the exalted Master level. The exam covers literally every nuance of the world of wine, spirits and cigars. Those who have passed have put at risk their personal lives, their well-being, and often their sanity to pull it off. Shrouded in secrecy, access to the Court Of Master Sommeliers has always been strictly regulated and cameras have never been allowed anywhere near the exam, until now. How much do you think you know about wine? Somm will make you think again. Somm takes you on the ultimate insider's tour into a world of obsession, hope, and friendship in red, blanc and sometimes rose.

PROJECT GREENLIGHT

HBO Original Series
Rated TVMA; 2016

Project Greenlight, the documentary series chronicling the search for a first-time director and exploring the filmmaking process, returns to HBO for an all-new, eight-episode season. Executive produced by Ben Affleck and Matt Damon, who were executive producers of the previous two seasons on HBO (in 2001 and 2003), the new season of Project Greenlight spans the entire filmmaking process, taking a revealing, uncensored look at the challenges facing a firsttime director. The show begins with a digital competition, following the winner from pre-production and casting through principal photography and post-production. Equipped with a Hollywood-vetted script and surrounded by a team of industry professionals, including award-winning filmmaking duo Peter and Bobby Farrelly (who serve as judges), the fledgling director must learn to cope with pressure from the studio and producers, survive on-set politics, and lead a veteran cast and crew, all while trying to deliver a viable movie – on schedule and on budget.

Approximately 86 minutes; 2016

First-time feature-film director Jason Mann, who recently won this season's Project Greenlight competition, directs this new HBO Films comedy, executive produced by Project Greenlight EPs Matt Damon and Ben Affleck. Taking place primarily over the course of one night, the story (written by Mann with former Project Greenlight winner Pete Jones) follows a charming English con man, William Rooney, who creates a false identity to marry wealthy socialite Fiona Langston, the daughter of U.S. Senator Edward Langston. But on the eve of their wedding, William's plans go awry when Leonard, his estranged, ne'er do well brother, shows up and crashes the party. While William unsuccessfully tries to control Leonard's increasingly troublesome behavior while keeping him from revealing William's true identity to his soon-to-be in-laws, Fiona grows more and more distant, worried that her finance, "Charles Devonshire," is much more like her controlling, hot-tempered father than she originally thought – all while a secession of family secrets is revealed into the wee hours of one unpredictable night.

San Francisco has long enjoyed its reputation as the counter-culture capital of America, drawing bohemians, mavericks, progressives and activists into its streets. With the onset of the digital Gold Rush, however, young members of the tech elite are flocking to the West Coast to make their fortunes, and the influx of new tech wealth is forcing San Francisco to reinvent itself. As these innovators lead America into the golden age of digital supremacy, are the techies changing the heart and soul of their adopted city? Acclaimed filmmaker Alexandra Pelosi returns to her hometown to find out what the tech boom has in store for this historically progressive city. Featuring interviews with top industry leaders, politicians and long-time residents fighting for their place in a city that may be leaving them behind, San Francisco 2.0 is an insightful look at the price of progress, and the challenges of holding onto a collective past.

Baptiste is a solitary type. A teacher in southern France, he never stays more than three weeks in the same job. One Friday, he finds himself in charge of Mathias, one of his pupils, who hasn't been picked up after school. Mathias takes the boy to his mother, Sandra. She's a beautiful woman who has led a bit of a wild life and who now works on a beach near Montpellier. Within a day, the trio have formed a bond, like the beginnings of a family for these three people who don't have one. But the magic doesn't last. Sandra owes money and if she doesn't pay up something dire could happen. She must hit the road, flee once again. To help Sandra, Baptiste must take a look back at the origins of his own life, at the most painful and secret parts of himself.
